PM: 'This is the right decision'

► Harper adamant that Ottawa's decision to not fund Expo 2017 is right choice ► Mayor Mandel 'past angry' over what he alluded to as a federal flip-flop

Prime Minister Stephen Harper says he believes the majority of people in Edmonton support his government's decision not to help fund Expo 2017.

Harper says he's seen surveys in the local media that suggest his government's decision has won some favour in the city.

"I am and I think our caucus is very clear that not proceeding is the right decision and, by the way, not just for the taxpayers of Canada.

"This is the right decision for the taxpayers of Alberta and most importantly for the taxpayers of Edmonton," Harper told reporters here yesterday, where he was holding a closed-door economic roundtable.

"I also want to thank the people of Edmonton who, I think, from everything I am seeing in terms of public opinion surveying, are pretty clearly supporting that decision."

The prime minister reiterated his government's position that the cost of hosting the world's fair, including security, would be too expensive.

The estimated cost of the Expo was

Mandel's reaction

Mayor Stephen Mandel was furious when he learned last week of the Conservative government's refusal to back the plan.

- Mandel pointed out at the time that the city was encouraged to make the bid by Ottawa. Yesterday, Mandel said he wasn't about to argue with the prime minister. "We did polling and that polling indicated that Albertans and Edmontonians supported the Expo," he said.
- When asked if he was still upset at the government's decision, Mandel said he was "past angry."

pegged at $2.3 billion for the three-month event that promised to draw millions of visitors to the area from around the world.

The bid was tied to Canada's 150th birthday. The country had hosted previous expos in Vancouver in 1986 and Montreal in 1967.

Residents uprooted after asbestos found

► Discovery made after $2.6-million fire last week ► More than 300 people leaving 157-unit highrise

Hundreds of downtown residents are seeking temporary shelter after a high-rise fire led to the discovery of asbestos.

The discovery was made in the drywall during inspections following the Nov. 23 fire, which destroyed two suites at the Valhalla Apartments. All residents of the building, located at 113 Street and 99 Avenue, have been told they will need to find other accommodations until it can be removed.

Jeannie Lloyd lives on the 14th floor with her daughter. She found out on Friday during a meeting held at a nearby church that she would have to move somewhere else.

"My daughter and I are looking for a short-term furnished place because we're going to leave our furniture here," said Lloyd. "I do want to come back."

Cause of blaze

- The fire was caused by a fibreboard sound barrier, which ignited while a worker was soldering a pipe on the top floor of the 16-storey highrise.
- The fire immediately displaced approximately 20 residents; the rest were allowed back in the building prior to the asbestos discovery.

Building management wouldn't comment, only saying the building is closed and inspections are still ongoing.

Residents came in yesterday to gather their belongings.

Lloyd said she was told it could be three to four months before she is able to move back in: "It's pretty depressing."

26 low-income units open

A total of 26 new units have opened in the inner city, providing options to families, couples and individuals in need of low-income housing.

The modestly sized units were a need set out by the city's 10 Year Plan to End Homelessness, launched in early 2009.

Italian PM denies wild side

► Leaked cables claim Berlusconi puts the party in politics

Italian Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi insisted yesterday he only throws elegant, dignified soirees at his villas and not wild parties as reportedly described by a Rome-based U.S. diplomat in a cable contained in the Wikileaks trove.

Berlusconi said he didn't care to read what such diplomats had to report, saying "I don't look at what third-rate or fourth-rate officials say."

"I unfortunately have never in my life been to a wild party. Maybe they're interesting. I've never been."

ITALIAN PRIME MINISTER SILVIO BERLUSCONI

Berlusconi has been accused of entertaining escorts and underage girls at his villas — allegations that have fuelled a political crisis that has brought the government to a no-confidence vote in two weeks.

According to the cable, Berlusconi's "frequent late nights and penchant for partying hard mean he does not get sufficient rest." Yesterday, Berlusconi shrugged off the commentary with a laugh.

"I unfortunately have never in my life been to a wild party," he said. "Maybe they're interesting. I've never been."

Group says crumbling cities need more cash

Canada's big cities are facing a fiscal crunch that threatens their ability to pay for such things as transit, sewers and housing, say business groups in a joint appeal to federal and provincial governments.

In a news release to be issued nationally today, the chambers of commerce from 13 of Canada's largest municipalities call for a new urban strategy to keep cities from falling apart.

80 About 80 per cent of Canadians live in the major urban centres but less than 10 per cent of all taxes are collected by municipal governments.

"The bottom line is that Canada's largest urban centres need a more stable, secure and growing revenue source," the release states.

But while municipalities have traditionally placed the lion's share of blame on underfunding from Ottawa and the provinces, the chambers say the municipalities share some responsibility.

U.S. to sue WikiLeaks?

- Obama administration feels the heat after cables go public
- Considering taking legal action

LEAKS

The Obama administration moved forcefully yesterday to contain damage from the release of more than a quarter-million classified diplomatic files, branding the action as an attack on the United States and raising the prospect of legal action against online whistle-blower WikiLeaks.

Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton said WikiLeaks acted illegally in posting the material. She said the Obama administration was taking "aggressive steps to hold responsible those who stole this information."

White House spokesman Robert Gibbs

said the U.S. would not rule out taking action against WikiLeaks. Attorney General Eric Holder said the administration would prosecute if violations of federal law are found in a criminal investigation of the incident.

Gibbs said President Barack Obama was briefed on the impending massive leak last week and was "not pleased" about the breach of classified documents. "This is a serious violation of the law," Gibbs said.

The White House ordered a government-wide review of how agencies safeguard sensitive information. Clinton said steps were already being taken to tighten oversight of diplomatic files.

Riots erupt in Egypt over alleged fraud

► Rights groups say government kept independent monitors out of polling stations in order to stuff ballots

Protesters set fire to cars, tires and two polling stations, clashing with police firing tear gas in riots that erupted around Egypt yesterday.

A coalition of local and international rights groups reported that the balloting was marred by widespread rigging after the government prevented monitoring. It said opposition candidate representatives and independent monitors who were supposed to be allowed to watch the voting were barred from almost all polling stations around the country, allowing officials to stuff ballot boxes.

The country's most

powerful opposition movement, the Islamic fundamentalist Muslim Brotherhood, acknowledged that its lawmakers may be all but completely swept out of parliament.

The election showed the Brotherhood's limited options after repeated crack-downs — including the arrest of some 1,400 of its activists in the weeks ahead of the vote.

Sunday's parliamentary vote was overshadowed by a presidential election set for next year. The man who has ruled Egypt for nearly three decades, 82-year-old President Hosni Mubarak, has had health issues and many believe he is positioning his son, Gamal, to succeed him.

In Washington, State Department spokesman P.J. Crowley said the United States had "serious concerns about what occurred," though it was still evaluating the situation. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHEAPNESS MIGHT ACTUALLY BE A VIRTUE

She says ...

JESSICA

This is a story about my co-worker Phillip.

Phillip and I happen to share the same birthday. And this is where the similarities end. While I've been known to be a bit reckless with my spending, he is much more conservative when it comes to finances.

If I were polite I would call Phillip extremely frugal. But instead, I'll be honest and call him cheap. He brings penny-pinching, coupon clipping and discount shopping to a whole new level.

In addition to his actual job, Phillip runs a small convenience store out of his cubicle. On any given day his filing cabinet holds chocolate bars, trail mix, bags of chips and even packages of Tums for overindulgent co-workers. He dispenses his wares at an exorbitant premium, making a significant profit off of snack-happy office mates. Phillip has a strict pricing policy; he doesn't permit haggling and will not sell you a handful of Skittles at a discount.

Despite daily arguments over the cost of a single mini Kit-Kat bar (50 cents each or three for a dollar) Phillip's stingy attitude can also be a helpful (if not hilarious) addition to the daily 9-5 grind. He routinely circulates emails that alert office staff to special sales and discounts that might be of interest.

So why should you care about any of this?

We're all inclined to be a bit generous with our paycheques around the holidays. Every year, I splurge on gifts for loved ones only to wind up plunging into a debt despair come January.

This year, Phillip — my perpetually penny-wise friend — has been encouraging me to give up my wanton ways and come over to the cheap side. Ninety per cent of his gift giving is reliant on whatever those group-buying coupon websites offer in the weeks leading up to the holidays.

What a Grinch.

But maybe he's onto something. On the heels of Black Friday and the general insanity of holiday shopping, I've started thinking that maybe gratuitous spending isn't so great, even if it is in the name of all things festive. In the face of crazed consumerism, cheapness might actually be a virtue. And perhaps a little retail restraint is just what we all need this holiday season.

12 days equals $100K

Worth mentioning

In the unlikely event that your Christmas list this year includes every item mentioned in The Twelve Days Of Christmas, be prepared to pay nearly $100,000.

Trying to buy the 364 items repeated in all the song's verses — from 12 drummers drumming to a partridge in a pear tree — would cost $96,824 US, an increase of 10.8 per cent over last year, according to the annual Christmas Price Index compiled by PNC Wealth Management.

So you might want to try for one of everything. That would cost only $23,439, or 9.2 per cent more than last year.

Holiday index

The 27th annual holiday index has historically mirrored the U.S. Consumer Price Index, but not this year. The PNC Christmas Price Index grew 9.2 per cent from last year, compared with just a 1.1 per cent increase in the much broader Consumer Price Index.

Also, gold prices are high — which pushed the cost of five gold rings up 30 per cent to $649.95 — as was the cost of hiring entertainers.

The most expensive item on the list was $6,294.03 to hire nine ladies dancing, a 15 per cent increase from last year. The cheapest was $12 for one partridge, a 20 per cent increase.

2010's most fascinating people

What does octogenarian funny lady Betty White share with teen singing sensation Justin Bieber? What do film star Sandra Bullock and hoops star LeBron James have in common?

All are among this year's crop of The 10 Most Fascinating People, as harvested by Barbara Walters from the fields of entertainment, sports and world affairs.

Also on the list: GOP superstar Sarah Palin, incoming American Idol judge Jennifer Lopez, royal fiancée Kate Middleton and the entire cast of MTV's Jersey Shore. Two more Most Fascinating People are yet to be disclosed, and, as usual, the 10th name will be kept under wraps until the ABC News special airs Dec. 9 at 10 p.m.

This is the 18th year Walters has presented her roundup of the biggest and most buzzworthy. But this year, there's more. She's got a companion special the same night.

An hour earlier — at 9 p.m. EST — Walters is hosting Oprah, The Next Chapter. It's an in-depth visit with Winfrey as she readies OWN, her new cable network launching Jan. 1, and roars down the home stretch of her daytime talk show's final season.

"I interviewed her in 1988, when she was first becoming very popular," Walters said not long ago. "She and I consider this latest interview our coming full circle."

On the program, Winfrey will discuss her new network, the reason she's doing it and concerns she has for its success — "it's a huge leap of faith," Walters said.

Winfrey also talks "very personally" about her relationships with best friend Gayle King and longtime partner Stedman Graham.

"This is an interview about Oprah's life at this turning point," Walters said.

On The 10 Most Fascinating People of 2010, the conversation is personal, too, when Walters sits down with White.

At 88, White has enjoyed a year of triumphs and much-deserved attention as an actress-comedian who is full of life, but during her interview, "she talks about how she feels about death," said Walters, adding, "She still wants to have sex."

Palin — the bestselling author and former governor and vice-presidential candidate — is one of Walters' most fascinating people for a record third consecutive year. Walters said she came away from their recent meeting convinced that "this is a woman who is going to be a candidate (for president) — or, at least, wants to be a candidate."

Walters saw fit to interview Snooki, The Situation and the rest of this outrageous reality show.

"They were all on very good behaviour and very well dressed, and they've all got big plans for the future," said Walters. "And they taught me their language" — terms like smooosh and grenade — "none of which I need to know."

Walters learned something from Bieber, too. He taught Walters a new dance.

"This is a kid who is smart as can be and very talented at 16," Walters said. And despite his huge success (he emerged as the biggest winner at this year's American Music Awards), he hasn't lost his grounding as a 16-year-old: "His mother still takes away his computer when he doesn't behave."

As Walters looked back at the year that served up her latest "Fascinating People," she couldn't help remark on what the year has meant to her: In May, she underwent open-heart surgery to replace a faulty valve.

"It was last year at this time that there began to be this shadow in my life," she said, "because that's when I heard that I might possibly have to have this surgery. Now that shadow is gone. I've been staggeringly busy the last few months, and I'm fine."

"It's not that I'm fascinating, but I think my journey this year has been fascinating."

Justin Bieber gets ready for crucial change

- ▶ His voice hasn't broken yet, but it will soon
- ▶ Working with Usher's voice coach

While his star continues to rise, there are concerns over how exactly teen sensation Justin Bieber's voice is dropping.

"Justin is physically developing at a slower rate than most guys so his voice is only breaking now," a source tells the News of the World. "He's working with the best in the business, a specialist called Jan Smith, to make sure he gets as much vocal rest as humanly possible for a working pop star. It's the same people who worked with Usher when his voice broke.

Hathaway, Franco will host Oscars

James Franco and Anne Hathaway have just what Academy Awards producers want as hosts of Hollywood's biggest night. They'll put on a show, rather than just another awards ceremony, organizers say.

Bruce Cohen and Don Mischer, producers of the Feb. 27 telecast, said Monday they had chosen Franco and Hathaway as hosts because the two are rising stars with broad talent that will help turn the night into a celebration of film.

"What we have here are two really emerging talents who are very respected and are going to have, I think, magnificent careers," Mischer said.

Both have done serious drama and comedy. Hathaway earned a best-actress Oscar nomination for 2008's Rachel Getting Married and starred in such comedies as The Princess Diaries and The Devil Wears Prada.

Franco had an Emmy nomination for the title role of 2001's James Dean, co-starred in the Oscar-winning Milk and delivered a memorable comic turn as a spacey pot dealer in Pineapple Express.

Hathaway also showed off her musical talents in a duet at the 2008 Oscars with the show's host, Hugh Jackman. Oscar producers were uncertain whether Franco can sing.

"There's a rumour that he can, and we will be exploring that," Cohen said. "What we do know is they both have a great sense of humour and a great sense of comedy," Mischer said.

While most Oscar shows over the past two decades have had comedians such as Billy Crystal, Chris Rock or Jon Stewart as emcee, Hathaway and Franco continue a recent trend of using film stars.

Steve Martin, a past solo host of the Oscars, and his It's Complicated co-star Alec Baldwin teamed up as hosts last year, while X-Men and Broadway star Jackman was host the year before.

► Researchers in Alberta have shown there is a link between HIV/AIDS and neurological disease.

HIV linked to brain disease: Researchers

► Neurological problems shown to be common among AIDS patients ► No longer universally fatal, antiretroviral drugs are helping to improve survival rate ► Still a long way to go though

CELIA MILNE
WELLNESS@METRONEWS.CA

Rita Tekeste, age 34, is HIV positive.

Since she was diagnosed with the infection seven years ago, she has been on antiretroviral medications, which keep her virus under control while she raises two children, works, and volunteers at the Southern Alberta HIV Clinic in Calgary.

But starting in 2007, Tekeste had some new problems: horrendous headaches, debilitating seizures and loss of memory.

Thanks to one of her physicians, Dr. Chris Powers, the world now knows that neurological problems like this are fairly common in people with HIV/AIDS patients.

He and colleagues recently published results of an important 10-year study linking HIV to neurological disease.

"In a nutshell we showed that despite the availability of antiretroviral drugs, neurological disease is common, occurring in over 20 per cent of those with HIV," Dr. Powers told Metro.

He is a professor in neurology at the universities of Alberta and Calgary and Canada Research Chair in

"It is not universally fatal the way it was before."

DR. CHRIS POWERS

Neurological Infection and Immunity.

Tekeste is now feeling OK. She's on medications to control her seizures and headaches, as well as taking a cocktail of HIV drugs.

Overall, there is good news on the HIV front, thanks to the dozens of HIV medications now on the market in Canada.

"Yes, it is not universally fatal the way it was before, because of the availability of antiretrovials," says Power. But there is bad news too.

"Survival depends on drug cocktails that are hard to take, expensive and toxic. And survival is still much less than in the general population and particularly bad if you have neurological disease."

The study included 1,651 people infected with HIV who were being treated at the Southern Alberta Clinic in Calgary between 1998 and 2008; in those 10 years, 404 of them had neurological problems such as seizures, dementia, nerve pain in their hands and feet, memory loss, headaches and migraines.

Zoonotic

HIV/AIDS is far from the only disease that comes to us from animals. These viruses, bacteria and other nasty bugs are called "zoonotic infections" and there are more than 500 of them, according to the Journal of Epidemiology and Community Health. Here is a partial list of other disease:

- H1N1 from pigs
- West Nile virus from birds
- Measles from cattle
- Rabies from dogs
- HIV from monkeys
- Lyme disease from ticks
- Malaria from mosquitoes

The disease

The HIV/AIDS epidemic is changing. In Canada, 65,000 people lived with HIV infection in 2008, an increase of 14 per cent since 2005, reports Health Canada. Gay men continue to be the group most affected by HIV in Canada, amounting to 44 per cent of those infected. But, according to Alberta neurologist Dr. Chris Power, vulnerable populations include I.V. drug users and Aboriginal women.

Gay HIV boom hits young men

A generation ago, AIDS was decimating the gay population. Now it's back.

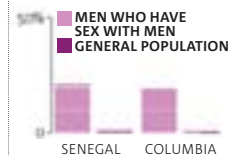

"HIV is clobbering the gay community," says Robert Carr, director of policy and advocacy at the International Council of AIDS Service Organizations.

"A new generation has grown up that doesn't remember the AIDS epidemic in the 1980's. People don't see their friends dying like they did then. And they've become complacent because HIV isn't a death sentence any more."

There's one obvious reason for the high infection rates: HIV spreads more easily through anal sex than through vaginal sex. "(Gay men) here often get the virus while having drug-induced sex," says Mikey, an HIV-positive AIDS outreach worker in Kuala Lumpur. Multiple "Societies have to be honest about the fact that they have gay people," says Carr.

"And in Western countries there are now gay men who aren't white and middle-class. HIV is increasing among men that weren't part of our countries 20 years ago."

An old favourite

► Old Bay Seasoning has changed its classic side-of-the-can crab cake recipe, but we dug up the original

Preparation:

1 Heat oven to 200 C (400 F). Then, to make remoulade: In a bowl, whisk together mayonnaise, pepper jelly, capers, gherkins, parsley and Worcestershire sauce. Season with salt and pepper. Set aside.

2 Cut two ends off each potato, then cut each in half across the centre to create two rounds. Place in bowl and cover with hot water. Allow to rest for 10 minutes.

3 Remove potatoes from water and dry well. Place potatoes on a rimmed baking sheet and toss with oil, salt and pepper.

4 Arrange potatoes in an even layer on baking sheet, then roast for 15 minutes. Use a spatula to flip each round, then roast for another 15 minutes or until they are crispy and browned on the outside and tender on the inside.

5 While potatoes cook, make crab cakes. Crumble stale bread into a medium bowl and add milk. All the bread should absorb all the milk. Add remaining crab cake ingredients and mix until incorporated.

6 Form mixture into 20 miniature patties, about the size of a tablespoon.

7 When potatoes are cooked, transfer them to paper towels to drain any excess oil. Carefully place crab cakes on hot pan and return to oven. Cook for 5 minutes, then turn on broiler. Brown crab cakes on one side, two minutes, flip crab cakes over and broil them until browned on the other side.

8 Arrange potatoes on a platter. Top each one with a crab cake, then drop a small dollop of remoulade. Serve immediately. Makes 20.

I'm a vegetarian but my husband-to-be is a carnivore. We're on the verge of moving in together, but he's upset that I won't allow meat in the house. Can a vegetarian and meat-lover ever live happily ever after?

Angela says...

Relationships are all about compromise and it doesn't seem fair to all out ban meat from the house if your loved one partakes.

You will both need to figure out how to have meat around, while being respectful of each other's food choices. This will be a logistical challenge, no doubt. But remember that sharing meals can be a very intimate activity you do together as a couple — whether it's cooking together, preparing a treat for your honey or stocking the fridge for your loved one. You don't want to feel as though you're college roommates labelling one half of the fridge.

Derek says...

During our honeymoon, Angela and I visited her family in southern Italy. When we arrived at their house, one of the first sentences out of my new zia's mouth was "We're having rabbit for dinner. We killed it this afternoon in your honour."

I learned, you can't force a meat-eater to go green.

The award for worst sex goes to...

Canadian author Annabel Lyon has not written the year's worst literary sex scene.

Lyon had been short listed for the Literary Review Bad Sex in Fiction award, but the dubious honour ultimately went to Irish author Rowan Somerville for The Shape of Her.

Judges of the annual literary award said they were especially impressed by a passage comparing love-making to "a lepidopterist mounting a tough-skinned insect."

The animal imagery continues elsewhere in the novel, a tale of desire and memory set on a Greek island. One character's fingers are described as "tender enough to hold a tiny bird."

The prize, founded in 1993 by Literary Review magazine, aims to draw attention to "the crude, tasteless, and often perfunctory use of redundant passages of sexual description in contemporary novels."

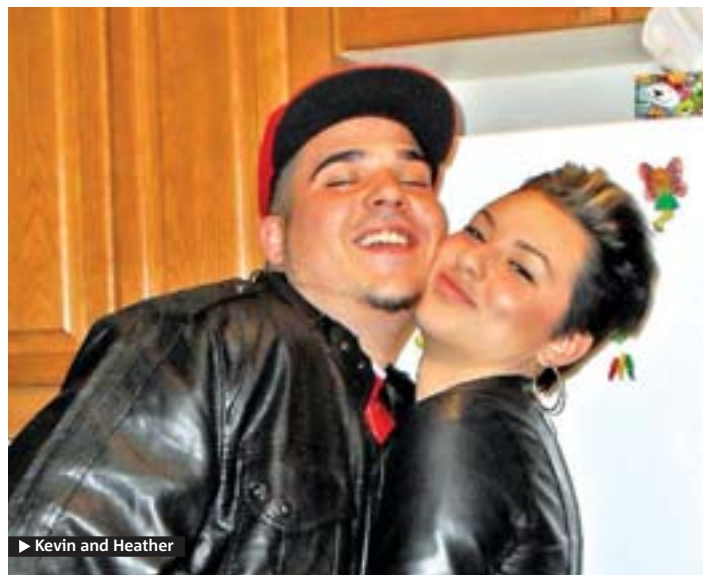

Somerville, who was born in Britain and lives in Ireland, took his victory in good humour, noting that "there is nothing more English than bad sex."

He said he was honoured to be shortlisted alongside authors like Australia's Christos Tsiolkas — for The Slap.

Lyon was in the running for The Golden Mean, which was nominated for the Scotiabank Giller Prize and the Governor General's

Award and won the Rogers Writers' Trust Fiction Prize. THE CANADIAN PRESS

How We Met: Kevin & Heather

Names: Kevin, 22, and Heather, 20

Current city: Toronto

Together since: 2009

Their story:

"I was 16 years old the first time I (Heather) met Kevin. We were at a party and although he was very charming and persistent, I wasn't interested that night (I was only 16!)..."

Fast-forward almost three years, and I'd been asked to serve as a bridesmaid in my cousin's wedding.

The only thing in my mind was "I hope my usher is cute!" Shallow? Sure. But I was 19 and had been through my fair share of frogs.

My cousin and her fiancé held a barbecue mixer so that all the bridesmaids and ushers could get to know one another. It was a hot day in July, and I definitely dressed to impress that afternoon!

My cousin introduced me to this semi-tall, slightly chubby guy—I saw him as the portrait of perfection! He was exactly who I pictured as my ideal man.

It turned out he was the usher to my bridesmaid, and he was that same cute, eager boy from three years earlier. We talked that whole night and quickly became inseparable. He swept me off my feet this time around, and I knew from then on that I didn't want to live without him. It was definitely love at second sight!"

How to give with a purpose

► This year, putting some thought into giving is sure to make your charitable donation a lot more meaningful

ON MONEY

ALISON GRIFFITHS
MONEY@METRONWS.CA

"Tis the season of giving but, like anything to do with money, having a plan really improves both the experience and the outcome.

First of all, make sure the charity of your choice is registered with the federal government.

The Canada Revenue Agency has been eyeing charities more carefully lately and there has been an increase in revoked registrations.

Secondly, it is almost always more beneficial to give directly to a charity rather than via a telephone or mail solicitation.

Some charities do their own mail blitzes but many hire fundraisers that take a piece of the pie.

Thirdly, don't spray your money all over the place. You will feel more connected to a couple of charities if you focus your giving than if you give little bits here and there to a dozen of them.

Choosing a charity can be overwhelming. There are so many good ones and so much need. One great place to start is with your, or your family's, heart.

My late father-in-law, Jack Cruise, was an ophthalmologist and in his 70s he travelled to India and Pakistan with Operation Eyesight Universal to perform cataract surgery in mobile clinics. By giving to that organization, my children felt connected to their grandfather.

I also find that children love causes where they get something back such as a letter, a photo or some tangible recognition that their efforts have made a difference.

SCROOGE, YOU'RE
JUST A BIT FRUGAL

Plan inexpensive activities like walking, tobogganing, skating, building snowmen or borrowing books and renting old movies. Take your loved ones to a holiday pageant or make a home video wishing your loved ones a happy holiday season.

Organize volunteer activities with friends and family. Pack food hampers at the food bank or fill a few Operation Christmas Child shoe boxes for a child in need. It's a healthy reminder of how important it is to give back.

Preparing holiday meals can be very expensive so host a holiday potluck dinner instead. Try to buy your meal ingredients in bulk and as much in advance as you can. Use coupons and don't overbuy: a smaller turkey and veggie dishes are ample.

The holidays are about spending time with people you love, not getting caught up in the over-consumption hype.

Plan to have a frugal and cheerful holiday season by setting up a budget to avoid debt, and by shopping early, so you'll have less pressure on your cash flow near the end of the year. Plus, you won't get gouged at the till with holiday 'specials'.

on the amount friends and family can spend on gifts. Also, shop throughout the year when you see specials and sales — check flyers, the internet, etc.

Better yet, don't spend on gifts. Make cards, bake or prepare crafts for a gift basket. Or exchange loyalty points from your credit card or other reward program for gift cards or travel vouchers.

Save money on presents by drawing names so that you only have to buy for one person. Or, set limits

Today's horoscope

♈ Aries March 21-April 20

Everyone needs to have a dream. Don't let those who lack your imagination talk you out of trying to make your vision of a better life come true. You can, and you will, make it happen.

♉ Taurus April 21-May Venus, planet of harmony, moves into your opposite sign today, making it easier for you to get through to loved ones on an emotional level. They're waiting for you to reach out.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 The more of an effort you make to get along with colleagues, the more of an effort they will make to help you out with something that is too much for you to cope with on your own.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22

You will find that the right opportunity comes at just the right time and in just the right way. After that, it's up to you. Seize the day and make it your own.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 23 Your home life may have been a bit chaotic lately, but from today it will start to settle down again. Domestic bliss is a necessary precondition to making the most of your creative talents. Soon, you'll be flying again.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24-Sept. 22 Ignore what others say cannot be done and do it anyway. For them, it may be difficult, even impossible. But for you, it will be child's play — simply because you refuse to take it too seriously.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23

Positive news regarding your cash flow is due any day. Stop worrying about where your next dollar is coming from because negative thinking only pushes good things away. Think rich and you'll be rich. It's that simple.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 You may be intense by nature but you will relax considerably now that Venus is moving into your birth sign. Life is good and you can sense that it is about to get even better.

♐ Sagittarius

Nov. 23-Dec. 21 Others can lower their standards and settle for second best if they like, but you're not about to follow their example. You're No. 1 or you're nothing.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20

What can you do to help friends through a rough patch? Tell them jokes. Make them smile. Laughter is always the best medicine.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 Venus crosses the career angle of your chart today, smoothing your path to success by making it easy to get along with employers. They want to see you succeed. How much do you want it?

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 Stop worrying about the things you can't change and start enjoying the good things in life. You may think life has been hard of late but compared to most people, you've had it easy. SALLY BROMPTON
